

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE EASTERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

ADAM MICHAEL KENDALL, Plaintiff,
v.
BRAZIL, et al.,
Defendants.

No. 2:24-cv-3801 DAD CSK P
ORDER

Plaintiff is a state prisoner proceeding pro se. Plaintiff seeks relief pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983 and requests leave to proceed in forma pauperis pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1915. On March 17, 2025, plaintiff filed a first amended complaint (“FAC”). This proceeding was referred to this Court by Local Rule 302 pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1).

Plaintiff submitted a declaration that makes the showing required by 28 U.S.C. § 1915(a). Accordingly, the requests to proceed in forma pauperis (ECF Nos. 3, 23) are granted.

Plaintiff is required to pay the statutory filing fee of $350.00 for this action. 28 U.S.C. §§ 1914(a), 1915(b)(1). By this order, plaintiff is assessed an initial partial filing fee in accordance with the provisions of 28 U.S.C. § 1915(b)(1). By separate order, the Court will direct the appropriate agency to collect the initial partial filing fee from plaintiff’s trust account and forward it to the Clerk of the Court. Thereafter, plaintiff is obligated to make monthly payments of twenty percent of the preceding month’s income credited to plaintiff’s trust account.

1 These payments will be forwarded by the appropriate agency to the Clerk of the Court each time
2 the amount in plaintiff's account exceeds $10.00, until the filing fee is paid in full. 28 U.S.C.
3 § 1915(b)(2).

4 As discussed below, plaintiff's FAC is dismissed with leave to file a second amended 5 complaint that does not exceed 25 pages, and that only includes claims arising from the same 6 transaction, occurrence, or series of transactions and occurrences in which all named defendants 7 were involved. Fed. R. Civ. P. 20(a)(2).

8 I. BACKGROUND

9 On December 30, 2024, plaintiff filed a 252 page document consisting of a 101 page 10 complaint and 151 pages of exhibits and cover sheets, and a request for leave to file a complaint 11 longer than 25 pages.¹ (ECF Nos. 1, 1-2.) Plaintiff also filed two applications to proceed in 12 forma pauperis. (ECF Nos. 3, 3-1.) On January 23, 2025, the CDCR filed a certified trust 13 account statement for plaintiff. (ECF No. 6.) On February 5, 2025, plaintiff filed another motion 14 to file a complaint longer than 25 pages. (ECF No. 12.) On March 17, 2025, plaintiff filed a 15 motion to amend (ECF No. 16), accompanied by a 286 page filing, including a 103 page FAC 16 (ECF No. 17 at 1-103), and 182 pages of exhibits and a proof of service (id. at 104-286).

17 II. MOTION TO AMEND

18 Because the original complaint had not yet been screened or served on defendants, no 19 responsive pleading has been filed. Therefore, plaintiff is allowed to amend his complaint as of 20 right. Fed. R. Civ. P. 15(a). Plaintiff's motion to amend (ECF No. 16) is denied as moot, and the 21 Court turns now to plaintiff's motion to exceed the 25 page limit.

22 III. PAGE LIMIT

23 Plaintiff renewed his request for leave to file a complaint exceeding 25 pages, claiming 24 there was "simply no way for the plaintiff to stay within 25 page requirement for electronic filing 25 and properly plead his claims." (ECF No. 12 at 2.)

26
27 ¹ Plaintiff also filed a motion for injunctive relief, which the Court recommended denying, and 28 the findings and recommendations were adopted by the district court on June 20, 2025. (ECF Nos. 2, 15, 21.)

Plaintiff is advised that prisoners seeking to file complaints electronically must submit a complaint, including exhibits, that does not exceed 25 pages. Here, plaintiff's FAC far exceeds this page limit; the entire filing is 286 pages, including the 103 page FAC, and 177 pages of exhibits. Plaintiff was required to obtain written permission from the Court before filing such a lengthy pleading. However, under the circumstances the Court grants plaintiff's request, nunc pro tunc, and screens plaintiff's FAC (ECF No. 17). Plaintiff is cautioned, however, that in the future he must seek written permission prior to filing such a lengthy pleading. As noted in the instructions for a prisoner electronically filing a civil rights complaint in this district, plaintiff's complaints should not exceed 25 pages. Indeed, the court's civil rights complaint form helps litigants plead the facts of their claims in a short and plain manner, as required under Rule 8 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

IV. SCREENING STANDARDS

The court is required to screen complaints brought by prisoners seeking relief against a governmental entity or officer or employee of a governmental entity. 28 U.S.C. § 1915A(a). The court must dismiss a complaint or portion thereof if the prisoner raised claims that are legally "frivolous or malicious," that fail to state a claim upon which relief may be granted, or that seek monetary relief from a defendant who is immune from such relief. 28 U.S.C. § 1915A(b)(1), (2).

A claim is legally frivolous when it lacks an arguable basis either in law or in fact. Neitzke v. Williams, 490 U.S. 319, 325 (1989); Franklin v. Murphy, 745 F.2d 1221, 1227-28 (9th Cir. 1984). The court may, therefore, dismiss a claim as frivolous when it is based on an indisputably meritless legal theory or where the factual contentions are clearly baseless. Neitzke, 490 U.S. at 327. The critical inquiry is whether a constitutional claim, however inartfully pleaded, has an arguable legal and factual basis. See Jackson v. Arizona, 885 F.2d 639, 640 (9th Cir. 1989), superseded by statute as stated in Lopez v. Smith, 203 F.3d 1122, 1130-31 (9th Cir. 2000) ("[A] judge may dismiss [in forma pauperis] claims which are based on indisputably meritless legal theories or whose factual contentions are clearly baseless."); Franklin, 745 F.2d at 1227.

Rule 8(a)(2) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure "requires only 'a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief,’ in order to ‘give the defendant fair notice of what the . . . claim is and the grounds upon which it rests.’” Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555 (2007) (quoting Conley v. Gibson, 355 U.S. 41, 47 (1957)). In order to survive dismissal for failure to state a claim, a complaint must contain more than “a formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action;” it must contain factual allegations sufficient “to raise a right to relief above the speculative level.” Bell Atlantic, 550 U.S. at 555. However, “[s]pecific facts are not necessary; the statement [of facts] need only ‘give the defendant fair notice of what the . . . claim is and the grounds upon which it rests.’” Erickson v. Pardus, 551 U.S. 89, 93 (2007) (quoting Bell Atlantic, 550 U.S. at 555, citations and internal quotations marks omitted). In reviewing a complaint under this standard, the court must accept as true the allegations of the complaint in question, Erickson, 551 U.S. at 93, and construe the pleading in the light most favorable to the plaintiff. Scheuer v. Rhodes, 416 U.S. 232, 236 (1974), overruled on other grounds, Davis v. Scherer, 468 U.S. 183 (1984).

V. PLAINTIFF’S FIRST AMENDED COMPLAINT

Plaintiff’s FAC names 41 defendants: forty employed at Mule Creek State Prison (“MCSP”) (39 prison guards and Warden Patrick Covello); and one defendant employed as the Secretary of the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (“CDCR”), Jeff Macomber. (ECF No. 17 at 14-15.) Plaintiff also names “unknown defendants at the office of the inspector general.” (Id. at 15.) Plaintiff alleges retaliation, falsification of documents, and systemic retaliation in violation of the First Amendment, unreasonable strip search in violation of the Fourth Amendment, excessive force in violation of the Eighth Amendment, deliberate indifference in violation of the Eighth Amendment, and state law claims including violation of California Civil Code § 1572, “assault and battery,” and “deprivation of property.” (Id. at 14.) Plaintiff claims that all of these violations occurred while he was housed at MCSP from March 22, 2024 to October 10, 2024, and resulted in plaintiff being issued 17 rule violation reports (“RVRs”), more than he has received at any other prison in eight years, all allegedly in retaliation for plaintiff filing grievances or advising the correctional officer that plaintiff would

1 file a grievance, which plaintiff alleges constitutes systemic retaliation.² (Id. at 15.) Plaintiff
 2 alleges that every time he would “use free speech; say [he] will file a grievance, say [he] will file 3 suit, or even ask a prison guard for his name, [plaintiff] received an RVR.” (Id.) Plaintiff alleges 4 that “the retaliation was so bad at MCSP [he] was confined to [his] cell,” only leaving “to go to 5 canteen, law library or an RVR hearing,” and stopped going to dinner because after 2:00 p.m. the 6 retaliation was worse. (Id. at 16.) Plaintiff included multiple claims based on numerous 7 incidents. (Id. at 17-85.)

8 In addition, plaintiff states he obtained his paralegal certificate with honors and has 9 finished nearly half of the requisite textbooks for the first year of law school with an eye toward 10 taking the first year law school exam. However, plaintiff alleges that these repeated issuances of 11 RVRs and retaliatory acts have stopped his studies, and he cannot take college classes now 12 because he is currently housed in administrative segregation (“ASU”) at CSP-COR because he 13 “was attacked by MCSP prison guards.” (Id. at 16.)

14 As relief, plaintiff seeks a declaratory judgment; an injunction requiring Warden Covello 15 to require every prison guard to wear a body camera, to record all inmates’ disciplinary hearings, 16 immediately address the systemic retaliation and other misconduct at MCSP, and halt training any 17 new prison guards for MCSP “until the systemic retaliation is rooted out and the toxic culture of 18 MCSP changed;” and an injunction preventing plaintiff’s return to MCSP, restoring plaintiff’s 19 level 3 override; an order appointing a special master to carry out the injunction; and 20 compensatory and punitive damages. (ECF No. 17 at 86-103.)

21 VI. MISJOINDER

22 Plaintiff’s lengthy FAC alleges numerous violations of his First, Fourth, and Eighth 23 Amendment rights, including supplemental state law claims, against 41 defendants arising from 24 numerous separate incidents at MCSP from March 22, 2024, to October 10, 2024. In addition,
 25 plaintiff joins these allegations together under a putative “systemic retaliation” theory. Plaintiff 26

27 ² In his earlier motion for injunctive relief, plaintiff states he has no previous offense punishable 28 by administrative segregation, “no violence in eight years, but one fight in 2019, no serious RVRs for 3 years, and has yet to be convicted of anything.” (ECF No. 2 at 12.)

1 seeks wide-ranging declaratory and injunctive relief, and money damages.

2 Rule 21 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure provides:

3 Misjoinder of parties is not a ground for dismissing an action. On 4 motion or on its own, the court may at any time, on just terms, add or drop a party. The court may also sever any claim against a party.

5 Fed. R. Civ. P. 21. Rule 20(a) provides that all persons may be joined in one action as defendants 6 if “any right to relief is asserted against them jointly, severally, or in the alternative with respect 7 to or arising out of the same transaction, occurrence, or series of transactions or occurrences” and 8 “any question of law or fact common to all defendants will arise in the action.” Fed. R. Civ. P.
9 20(a)(2); see also George v. Smith, 507 F.3d 605, 607 (7th Cir. 2007) (“Unrelated claims against 10 unrelated defendants belong in different suits”). If unrelated claims are improperly joined, the 11 court may dismiss them without prejudice. Fed. R. Civ. P. 21; 7 Alan Wright, Arthur Miller &
12 Mary Kay Kane, Richard Marcus, Federal Practice and Procedure § 1684 (3d ed. 2012); Michaels 13 Building Co. v. Ameritrust Co., 848 F.2d 674, 682 (6th Cir. 1988) (affirming dismissal under 14 Rule 21 of certain defendants where claims against those defendants did not arise out of the same 15 transaction or occurrences, as required by Rule 20(a)). Here, plaintiff’s claims arose from myriad 16 different incidents involving different defendants, and therefore are not properly joined in one 17 action.

18 Here, plaintiff is attempting to join, under a putative “systemic retaliation” theory, myriad 19 unrelated claims against numerous defendants in one action. Unrelated claims must be filed in 20 separate lawsuits. K’napp v. Cal. Dept. of Corr., 2013 WL 5817765, at *2 (E.D. Cal. Oct. 29, 21 2013), aff’d sub nom. K’napp v. Cal. Dept. of Corr. & Rehab., 599 F. App’x 791 (9th Cir. 2015)
22 (citation omitted). In other words, joining more than one claim in a single complaint is proper 23 when the claims are against the same defendant, but joining multiple defendants in one complaint 24 is proper only if the claims against them are based on the same facts. This rule is intended “to 25 prevent the sort of morass [a multiple claim, multiple defendant] suit produce[s].” See George, 26 507 F.3d at 607. Plaintiff’s claims do not arise from the same transaction or occurrence in which 27 all defendants were involved. Plaintiff alleges all of the defendants retaliated against him, but as 28 discussed in more detail below, most of the circumstances differed, and occurred over varying

1 time frames involving different defendants, and most of his allegations do not state cognizable 2 retaliation claims.

3 Where parties have been misjoined, the court may dismiss a party or sever the claims 4 against that party. Fed. R. Civ. P. 21. “[D]istrict courts who dismiss rather than sever must 5 conduct a prejudice analysis, including ‘loss of otherwise timely claims if new suits are blocked
6 by statutes of limitations.’” Rush v. Sport Chalet, Inc., 779 F.3d 973, 975 (9th Cir. 2015)
7 (quoting DirecTV, Inc. v. Leto, 467 F.3d 842, 846-47 (3d Cir. 2006)). Because 42 U.S.C. § 1983
8 does not have its own statute of limitations, district courts apply California’s statute of limitations
9 for personal injury actions and California’s laws regarding equitable tolling, except to the extent 10 any of these laws is inconsistent with federal law. See Jones v. Blanas, 393 F.3d 918, 927 (9th 11 Cir. 2004). California’s statute of limitations for personal injury actions is two years. See Cal.
12 Civ. Proc. Code § 335.1; Maldonado v. Harris, 370 F.3d 945, 954-55 (9th Cir. 2004).

13 Here, because the unrelated claims are based on numerous different incidents that took 14 place in 2024, plaintiff will not be prejudiced by their dismissal, without prejudice, from this 15 action. Plaintiff may pursue such claims in separate, timely actions. See also George, 507 F.3d at 16 607 (“Unrelated claims against unrelated defendants belong in different suits”). Further, 17 plaintiff’s improper joinder of his myriad claims cannot be remedied by dismissal of the unrelated 18 claims from this action because it is unclear which claims he will decide to pursue in this action, 19 and which claims he will choose to pursue in separate lawsuits. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 21. Thus, 20 plaintiff’s FAC must be dismissed because he has joined, in one pleading, unrelated claims that 21 do not all arise from the same transaction or occurrences, by the same defendants, 22 notwithstanding plaintiff’s effort to connect such incidents by claiming “systemic retaliation.”
23 Plaintiff is granted leave to file a second amended complaint in which he raises only those claims 24 arising from the same transaction, occurrence, or series of transactions and occurrences in which 25 all of the named defendants were involved.

26 VII. COGNIZABLE RETALIATION CLAIMS

27 Plaintiff’s FAC contains multiple retaliation claims against several different defendants, 28 but most of the allegations do not state cognizable retaliation claims. The Court first addresses

1 the standards governing retaliation claims and the cognizable retaliation claims before turning to 2 the non-cognizable retaliation claims.³

3 A. Standards Governing Retaliation Claims

4 “Prisoners have a First Amendment right to file grievances against prison officials and to 5 be free from retaliation for doing so.” Watison v. Carter, 668 F.3d 1108, 1114 (9th Cir. 2012)
 6 (citing Brodheim v. Cry, 584 F.3d 1262, 1269 (9th Cir. 2009)). In addition, threatening to file an 7 inmate grievance has been deemed protected conduct by the court. See Gleason v. Placencia, 8 2020 WL 3497001, at *3 (E.D. Cal. June 29, 2020) (citations omitted) (recognizing courts have 9 considered a request to obtain a grievance form or merely threatening to file a grievance within 10 the purview of actions protected by the First Amendment); Hackworth v. Arevalos, 2022 WL 11 18027835, at *7 (E.D. Cal. Dec. 30, 2022) (“Threatening to file an inmate grievance is also 12 protected activity.”), report and recommendation adopted, 2023 WL 2751532 (E.D. Cal. March 13 31, 2023).

14 “Within the prison context, a viable claim of First Amendment retaliation entails five 15 basic elements: (1) An assertion that a state actor took some adverse action against an inmate (2) 16 because of (3) that prisoner’s protected conduct, and that such action (4) chilled the inmate’s 17 exercise of his First Amendment rights, and (5) the action did not reasonably advance a legitimate 18 correctional goal.” Rhodes v. Robinson, 408 F.3d 559, 567-68 (9th Cir. 2005). The adverse 19 action must be of a sufficient nature that it would deter or “chill” a person of “ordinary firmness” 20 in the exercise of his constitutional rights. Id. at 568-69.

21 Adverse action taken against a prisoner “need not be an independent constitutional 22 violation. The mere threat of harm can be an adverse action.” Watison, 668 F.3d at 1114
 23 (internal citations omitted). A causal connection between the adverse action and the protected 24 conduct can be alleged by an allegation of a chronology of events from which retaliation can be 25 inferred. Id. However, not every allegedly adverse action will support a retaliation claim. See,

27 ³ The Court numbered plaintiff’s claims in the order in which he pled his allegations in the first 28 amended complaint. (ECF No. 17 at 17-85.)

1 e.g., Huskey v. City of San Jose, 204 F.3d 893, 899 (9th Cir. 2000) (retaliation claim cannot rest 2 on “the logical fallacy of post hoc, ergo propter hoc, literally, ‘after this, therefore because of 3 this’”) (citation omitted).

4 The plaintiff must allege specific facts demonstrating that the plaintiff’s protected conduct 5 was “the ‘substantial’ or ‘motivating’ factor behind the defendant’s conduct.” Brodheim, 584
 6 F.3d at 1271 (quoting Soranno’s Gasco, Inc. v. Morgan, 874 F.2d 1310, 1314 (9th Cir.1989))
 7 Plaintiff must also plead facts which suggest an absence of legitimate correctional goals for the 8 challenged conduct. Pratt v. Rowland, 65 F.3d 802, 806 (1995) (citation omitted). Mere 9 allegations of retaliatory motive or conduct will not suffice. The plaintiff must allege either a 10 chilling effect on future First Amendment activities, or that he suffered some other harm that is 11 “more than minimal.” Watson, 668 F.3d at 1114. A plaintiff successfully pleads that the action 12 did not reasonably advance a legitimate correctional goal by alleging, in addition to a retaliatory 13 motive, that the defendant’s actions were “arbitrary and capricious” or that they were 14 “unnecessary to the maintenance of order in the institution.” Id.

15 Finally, “not every unfavorable or unpleasant action will be sufficient to support a claim 16 under section 1983 for retaliation.” Fields v. Velasco, 2012 WL 3628862, at *9 (E.D. Cal. Aug.
 17 21, 2012). “In the prison context, cases in the Ninth Circuit addressing First Amendment 18 retaliation claims involve situations where the action taken by the defendant was clearly and 19 significantly adverse to the plaintiff.” Id. (citing Rhodes v. Robinson, 408 F.3d at 568 (arbitrary 20 confiscation and destruction of property, initiation of a prison transfer, and assault in retaliation 21 for filing grievances); Austin v. Terhune, 367 F.3d 1167, 1171 (9th Cir. 2004) (retaliatory 22 placement in administrative segregation for filing grievances); Bruce v. Ylst, 351 F.3d 1283, 1288
 23 (9th Cir. 2003) (retaliatory validation as a gang member for filing grievances); Hines v. Gomez, 24 108 F.3d 265, 267 (9th Cir. 1997) (retaliatory issuance of false rules violation and subsequent 25 finding of guilt); Pratt, 65 F.3d at 806 (retaliatory prison transfer and double-cell status); Rizzo v.
 26 Dawson, 778 F.2d at 530-32 (retaliatory reassignment out of vocational class and transfer to a 27 different prison).) Verbal harassment alone is insufficient to state a constitutional deprivation 28 under 42 U.S.C. § 1983. See Oltarzewski v. Ruggiero, 830 F.2d 136, 139 (9th Cir. 1987).

1 B. Second Claim – Defendant Brazil

2 In his second claim, plaintiff alleges defendant Brazil issued a false RVR in retaliation for 3 plaintiff telling Brazil that plaintiff would be filing a grievance, and then filed a grievance. While 4 plaintiff was moving his property into his cell on March 26, 2024 around 9:56 a.m., defendant
 5 Brazil got on the microphone and began rushing plaintiff to move faster. (ECF No. 17 at 19.)
 6 Plaintiff paused and told defendant Brazil that plaintiff was moving his property into the cell and 7 Brazil’s rushing plaintiff over the loud speaker would not hasten the process. (Id.) Plaintiff took 8 about thirteen more minutes to finish moving his property. Around 10:20 a.m., plaintiff walked 9 over to the tower to speak to Brazil, who was “immediately hostile” and spoke to plaintiff 10 “rudely.” (Id.) Plaintiff told defendant Brazil that plaintiff was going to file a grievance on him, 11 and Brazil responded that he would write plaintiff up for “disrespecting staff.” (Id.) Plaintiff 12 returned to his cell and wrote a grievance. (Id. at 19-20, 112-13)

13 In April 2024, plaintiff was issued a false rules violation report (“RVR”) by defendant 14 Brazil for “disobeying a direct order.” (Id. at 20, 117 (RVR dated April 4, 2024).) On May 2, 15 2024, accompanied by investigative employee and prison guard Hughes, plaintiff reviewed video 16 footage from the March 26, 2024 incident which demonstrated that defendant Brazil’s allegations
 17 in the RVR were demonstrably false, and plaintiff had not disobeyed a direct order. (Id. at 20.) 18 Plaintiff alleges that “prison guard Hughes agreed the RVR was ridiculous[,] and he could be 19 spending his time tending to more important matters.” (Id.) Plaintiff was found not guilty. (Id.
 20 at 122-23.)

21 Plaintiff’s claim that defendant Brazil issued a false RVR in retaliation for plaintiff telling 22 Brazil that plaintiff would be filing a grievance, and then filed a grievance, is sufficient to state a 23 potentially cognizable retaliation claim.⁴ See Gleason, 2020 WL 3497001, at *3.

24 ///

25 _____
 26 ⁴ In plaintiff’s second and some subsequent claims, plaintiff alleges “falsification of documents,” 27 as if it is a separate claim. Filing false documents is the adverse action in retaliation claims, and 28 is not a separate civil rights violation. See Koch v. Austin, 2006 WL 403818, at *5 (E.D. Cal.
 Feb. 16, 2006), findings and recommendations adopted, 2006 WL 842585 (E.D. Cal. Mar. 28, 2006). The Court does not separately address plaintiff’s “falsification of documents” claims.

1 C. Fourth Claim – Defendant Brazil

2 In his fourth claim, plaintiff alleges that on April 16, 2024, while plaintiff was attempting 3 to pick up his mail in the program office, defendant Brazil refused to allow plaintiff to sign the 4 form without speaking, and began harassing plaintiff, asking questions Brazil already knew the 5 answer to, and at one point stating Brazil would not give plaintiff his legal mail. (ECF No. 17 at 6 23.) Plaintiff told Brazil that plaintiff would be filing a grievance on him and taking him to court
7 for his continued retaliation, left and returned to his building. (Id.) Plaintiff found no grievances 8 in their usual location, so asked prison guards Melrose and Zaragoza if they could provide 9 plaintiff with a grievance. (Id.) There were none in the building, so Zaragoza asked plaintiff to 10 get some grievance forms from the program office. (Id.) When plaintiff arrived in the program 11 office, Brazil was still there handing out inmate mail; plaintiff tried not to engage Brazil, but 12 Brazil immediately began yelling. (Id. at 24.) Plaintiff tried to ignore Brazil and began knocking 13 on the door frame to the superior’s offices calling for help. Brazil yelled more aggressively, and 14 then began yelling, “cuff up!” (Id.) Defendant Sgt. Cusic left his office and plaintiff told Sgt.
15 Cusic that plaintiff was sent to the program office by prison guards to retrieve grievance forms 16 and asked Sgt. Cusic to restrain his subordinate. (Id.) Despite surveilling the situation, Sgt.
17 Cusic did nothing. (Id.) Defendant Warren came into the room, and Brazil hit the alarm.
18 Because plaintiff saw that Brazil and Warren intended to use force against plaintiff, plaintiff took 19 a seat on the floor with his legs crossed and his hands up palms faced out to show plaintiff posed 20 no threat. (Id.) Plaintiff reiterated he had been sent by prison guards Zaragoza and Melrose to 21 pick up grievance forms. (Id.) The guards continued to yell over plaintiff “prone out!” (Id.)
22 Warren cursed at plaintiff, took out his baton and cracked it open by plaintiff’s ear, yelling “prone 23 out!” (Id.) Defendant Sergeant entered the room and Brazil left briefly and returned. (Id.) 24 Almost as soon as Sergeant arrived, she began cursing at plaintiff, and when he asked her why, she 25 told plaintiff “Fuck you!” (Id.) Plaintiff took out a small pen and paper from his pocket and 26 wrote down her name, and then told Sergeant plaintiff would be filing a grievance on her. Sergeant 27 called plaintiff a “little bitch!” The prison guards continued yelling and cursing at plaintiff awhile 28 longer but ultimately allowed plaintiff to get up and leave. (Id.) When plaintiff returned to his

1 building, he asked Zaragoza to call the sergeant's office and let Sgt. Cusic and the other guards
 2 know that plaintiff was sent to the program office by Zaragoza and Melrose, which Zaragoza later
 3 did. (Id.) Plaintiff learned later that Brazil had briefly left the room to turn on a large fan that 4 would drown out the audio. (Id.)

5 Plaintiff's allegations as to defendant Brazil state a cognizable retaliation claim based on 6 the proximity in time to the false RVR and Brazil's refusal to provide plaintiff's mail.⁵

7 D. Fifth Claim – Defendant Sergeant

8 In his fifth claim, plaintiff alleges that on April 22, 2024, he received an RVR issued by 9 defendant Sergeant, who falsely claimed plaintiff cursed at the guards and falsely denied that she 10 or any of the guards called plaintiff a bitch or other derogatory term. (ECF No. 17 at 26, 131-32 11 (RVR).) Plaintiff claims Sergeant wrote a false RVR in retaliation for plaintiff's protected conduct 12 – “filing grievances, taking names, and using [his] free speech to tell guards that [he] will file 13 grievances and access courts.” (Id.)

14 Plaintiff's fifth claim states a potentially cognizable retaliation claim against Sergeant 15 based on her issuance of a false RVR in retaliation for plaintiff telling her he would file a 16 grievance against her. See Gleason, 2020 WL 3497001, at *3.

17 E. Sixth Claim – Defendant Brazil

18 In his sixth claim, plaintiff alleges that defendant Brazil also issued a false RVR against 19 plaintiff based on the April 16, 2024 incident. (ECF No. 17 at 26.) Plaintiff alleges that Brazil

20 21 ⁵ However, plaintiff fails to demonstrate that the remaining defendants' actions were taken based 22 on plaintiff's protected conduct. Sgt. Cusic's failure to “restrain his subordinate” as requested by 23 plaintiff does not constitute retaliation where plaintiff alleges no facts showing the failure to act 24 was based on plaintiff's First Amendment activity. Similarly, there are no allegations that 25 defendants Warren and Sergeant were acting in response to plaintiff's protected activity; rather, 26 given their late arrival, it is just as likely they were responding to plaintiff's failure to prone out, a 27 legitimate penological response. But even after plaintiff informed Sergeant that plaintiff would be 28 filing a grievance against her, other than yelling and cursing, in this claim, plaintiff identifies no adverse action by her that would constitute retaliation. Verbal harassment, including cursing, is insufficient to state a constitutional deprivation under 42 U.S.C. § 1983. See Oltarzewski, 830 F.2d at 139. Plaintiff admits that these defendants eventually let him leave. As noted above, not every unfavorable or unpleasant action will be sufficient to support a claim under section 1983 for retaliation. Plaintiff fails to state cognizable retaliation claims against Warren, Sergeant, and Sgt.
 Cusic.

1 “manufactured the conditions” of the incident, and falsely claimed he used “de-escalation
2 techniques.” (Id. (quoting ECF No. 17 at 133).) Plaintiff avers that none of the guards, including 3 Brazil, attempted to de-escalate the situation but rather attempted to provoke a situation where 4 they could use force. (ECF No. 17 at 27.) Plaintiff was found not guilty of the RVR. (Id.)

5 Plaintiff states a potentially cognizable retaliation claim against defendant Brazil based on 6 his alleged falsification of the RVR in retaliation for plaintiff’s protected conduct.

7 F. Eighth Claim – Defendant Cruz

8 In his eighth claim, plaintiff alleges on April 29, 2024, as plaintiff was headed to the law
9 library with PLU status, his hands were full, and he was trying to make the unlock, which occurs 10 every half hour. (ECF No. 17 at 29.) Cruz was walking in the same direction. Plaintiff went to 11 walk around Cruz, who turned and yelled, “I don’t like you walking behind me!” (Id.) Plaintiff
12 told Cruz “I’m not worried about you,” and tried to continue to the law library. (Id.) Cruz 13 stepped in plaintiff’s way, and as plaintiff tried to go in another direction, Cruz again stepped in 14 plaintiff’s way. (Id. at 30.) Cruz told the prison guard holding the library door not to let plaintiff 15 into the law library. (Id.) Plaintiff told Cruz and the other prison guard that plaintiff was PLU 16 status because he was suing prison guards, and if they wanted to impede plaintiff’s court access,
17 he could also make them a party to a suit. (Id.) Plaintiff took Cruz’s name and told her plaintiff 18 would be writing her up. Cruz asked for plaintiff’s identification card and said, “I’m writing you 19 up for disrespect!” (Id.) Plaintiff replied, “Disrespect? At what point did I disrespect you?”
20 Cruz replied, “I’m writing you up for disobeying an order!” (Id.) After plaintiff attended law
21 library, he returned to his cell and filed a grievance. (Id.)

22 In May, plaintiff received an RVR issued by Cruz for “disrespect.” (Id. (citing ECF No.
23 17 at 143 (May 14, 2024 RVR).) Plaintiff alleges the RVR is false, he did not disrespect Cruz, 24 and the “circumstance of violation” portion of the RVR contains numerous false statements and 25 embellishments, including that plaintiff flailed his arms and that Cruz blocked plaintiff’s way to 26 stop him from walking behind her. (Id.)

27 Plaintiff states a potentially cognizable retaliation claim against defendant Cruz based on 28 her issuance of a false RVR on May 14, 2024, against plaintiff based on his protected conduct.

1 G. Fourteenth Claim – Defendants Flores and Lee

2 In his fourteenth claim, plaintiff alleges on July 8, 2024, after being delayed in the dining 3 hall, plaintiff reported to the gate for his transport to a medical appointment. (ECF No. 17 at 41.)
4 Defendant Flores asked plaintiff if he was ready for transport; plaintiff responded that he needed
5 to briefly return to his cell to take his antibiotics. (Id.) Flores pressured plaintiff not to return to 6 his cell, and if he did, it would be considered a refusal to attend medical. (Id.) Plaintiff 7 responded that he was not refusing medical, but had to return to his cell and if he was denied 8 medical, plaintiff would write Flores up and file suit against him, and the longer they spoke, the 9 longer it would take to get on with the transport. (Id.) Flores became more hostile but 10 “ultimately conceded” and plaintiff returned to his cell. (Id.) Plaintiff returned within minutes, 11 and defendant Lee had joined Flores. (Id.) They headed to receiving and release (“R&R”), and 12 were approached by a cart driving on the walkway. (Id. at 41-42.) Flores told plaintiff to step off 13 the walkway, which he did, and then Flores instructed plaintiff to walk to the fence, and after 14 plaintiff took a few steps, Flores barked “face the fence!” (Id. at 42.) Plaintiff’s body was 15 already facing the fence, there was no alarm, no segregated prisoner under escort, and plaintiff 16 viewed Flores’ actions as retaliation. (Id.) Plaintiff told Flores “I am writing you up stop talking 17 to me.” (Id.) Flores became hostile and escalated the situation by arguing and defendant Lee 18 chimed in. (Id.) Flores informed plaintiff that he had to obey any order Flores “shouted.” (Id.) 19 Plaintiff responded he would only obey lawful orders, and told Flores the medical appointment he 20 was to attend was for an issue resulting from multiple civil rights violations, was pending 21 litigation, and if Flores denied plaintiff his medical appointment, plaintiff would not hesitate to 22 make Flores a defendant. (Id.) Plaintiff alleges Flores and Lee continued to escalate the situation 23 with curse words, threats to deny plaintiff’s medical appointment, and claimed plaintiff was 24 “displaying strange behavior,” and “needs to see mental health!” (Id.) Plaintiff responded, “I am 25 done speaking to you, I am done standing in front of R&R, you’re either taking me to my medical 26 appointment or I am going back to the cell to write you up.” (Id. at 43.) Flores replied, “you’re 27 not going to your appointment! Turn around and cuff up!” (Id.) Flores had no reason to restrain 28 plaintiff, so plaintiff, who feared for his safety, sat on the floor with his hands raised, palms

1 facing out, and requested a superior. (Id.) Plaintiff told Flores and Lee they had no grounds to 2 restrain plaintiff, and he did not want them touching him. (Id.) Finally, they told plaintiff he 3 could walk back to his cell on his own. (Id.) Plaintiff got up and started walking, while Flores
4 followed plaintiff and made unprofessional comments to plaintiff. Plaintiff claims he was denied 5 his medical appointment in retaliation for his protected conduct. (Id.)

6 Liberally construed, plaintiff states a potentially cognizable retaliation claim based on 7 defendants Flores and Lee denying plaintiff access to his medical transport because of plaintiff's 8 anticipated protected conduct.

9 H. Fifteenth Claim – Defendant Flores

10 In his fifteenth claim, plaintiff alleges in July 2024, he received an RVR issued by 11 defendant Flores, who falsely claimed plaintiff engaged in “behavior which could lead to 12 violence,” and made numerous false statements concerning what took place on July 8, 2024.
13 (ECF No. 17 at 44 (citing ECF No. 17 at 199).) Plaintiff states a potentially cognizable retaliation 14 claim against defendant Flores based on Flores’ issuing a false RVR against plaintiff because of 15 plaintiff’s protected conduct.

16 I. Seventeenth Claim – Defendant Lt. Bordewick

17 In his seventeenth claim, plaintiff alleges on July 3, 2024, he was in a holding cell in the 18 ASU waiting for transfer to B-yard, plaintiff witnessed Lt. Bordewick⁶ speaking unprofessionally 19 to prisoners in the surrounding holding cells, and saw an inmate restrained in handcuffs behind 20 his back while in the holding cell. (ECF No. 17 at 47.) Plaintiff attempted to quietly obtain 21 Bordewick’s name and to document the conditions plaintiff was witnessing. (Id.) Bordewick 22 noticed and said, “the name is Bordewick, and make sure you spell it right on the grievance!”
23 (Id.) Plaintiff responded that he would. (Id.) After that, Bordewick, who surprisingly knew 24 plaintiff’s name, became increasingly hostile, claiming he “did not fear prisoners who thought 25 they knew the law” and called plaintiff a “snitch” in front of other prisoners multiple times.” (Id.)

26
27 ⁶ Plaintiff uses “Bordewick” and “Bodewick” interchangeably in this section. (ECF No. 17 at 28 47-48.) Because plaintiff identified defendant “Bordewick” as a defendant (id. at 15), the Court will use “Bordewick.”

1 at 48.) Plaintiff claims Bordewick said things like, “jail-house snitch!” and “yeah, you’re going 2 to be a snitch your whole term!,” and made derogatory comments about plaintiff’s housing, 3 claiming “I bet you cell up with trannys!” and made other “false, hateful, disgusting, and 4 homophobic comments.” (Id.) Plaintiff alleges that by the time he arrived at B-yard, plaintiff
 5 was so upset by Bordewick’s conduct that plaintiff had forgotten the name, so filed a grievance
 6 identifying the guard as a lieutenant whose name began with the letter “B.” (Id. (citing ECF No.
 7 17 at 209 (grievance).)

8 Plaintiff’s allegations state a potentially cognizable retaliation claim against defendant 9 Bordewick who, in the context of this exchange, escalated the verbal abuse to call plaintiff a 10 snitch in front of other inmates in retaliation for plaintiff’s protected conduct. Such an allegation 11 is actionable. Valandingham v. Bojorquez, 866 F.2d 1135, 1137-39 (9th Cir. 1988) (reversing 12 grant of summary judgment where plaintiff alleged and supported with an affidavit that in 13 retaliation for filing grievances the defendant correctional officers conspired to label him a 14 “snitch” thereby subjecting him to threats of harm by other inmates); see also Gornick v.
 15 California Department of Corrections, 2008 WL 3941683, at *3 (E.D. Cal. Aug. 26, 2008) 16 (acknowledging that the allegations in Valandingham involved action that were clearly adverse to 17 plaintiff sufficient to constitute an actionable retaliation claim).

18 J. Eighteenth Claim – Defendant Lt. Bordewick

19 In his eighteenth claim, plaintiff alleges on August 26, 2024, he was called for a hearing
 20 on RVR Log No. 7470187 issued by defendant Bell. (ECF No. 17 at 49.) Upon entry, plaintiff 21 noticed it was Lt. Bordewick who was to hold the hearing. (Id.) Plaintiff immediately told Lt.
 22 Bordewick to

23 recuse yourself, get another prison guard to preside over this hearing.
 24 I will not receive a fair hearing from you, you are biased, you have 25 already retaliated against me once and you will continue your retaliation against me. The last interaction we had resulted in a grievance that went to internal affairs.

26 (Id.) Lt. Bordewick laughed and refused to recuse himself. (Id.) Plaintiff claims Lt. Bordewick 27 could have had Lt. Alardo hold the hearing as Lt. Alardo was only a few feet away. (Id.) Lt.
 28 Bordewick read out loud the “circumstances of violation” from the RVR, and when he was done,

1 plaintiff asked him if anything in there struck him as odd. (Id.) Lt. Bordewick smiled and said
 2 the RVR was perfect. (Id.) Plaintiff laughed indignantly and said,

3 I told [defendant] Bell I would file a grievance on him for what I 4 perceived to be misconduct, this is free speech and is protected by 5 the First Amendment. The only reason [defendant] Bell wrote me up was because I told him I would file a grievance on his and I have previously filed grievances on him and his fellow prison guards.

6 (Id. at 50) Lt. Bordewick said, “I find you guilty!” (Id.) Plaintiff responded, “Of course you do, 7 but the hearing is not over yet.” (Id.) Plaintiff sought the audio from the video footage that 8 plaintiff was earlier not provided, and requested it be presented as evidence because Bell claimed 9 plaintiff used free speech unlawfully. (Id.) Lt. Bordewick denied plaintiff access to the audio 10 portion of the video and refused to watch the video. (Id.) Despite Lt. Bordewick’s attempt to 11 prematurely conclude the hearing, plaintiff told him plaintiff had multiple witnesses, the first was 12 defendant Bell, who was not present. (Id.) Lt. Bordewick attempted to reschedule, but plaintiff 13 refused to consent, noting the regulation says the reporting employee “shall” be made available 14 upon request. (Id. at 51.) “Produce the witness or drop the charge.” (Id.) Lt. Bordewick ordered 15 prison guard Deuell to retrieve Lt. Lardo to assist, and Lardo called defendant Bell, who 16 answered the phone. (Id.) Lt. Bordewick deemed many of plaintiff’s proposed questions to be 17 irrelevant, and plaintiff alleges that Lt. Bordewick did not take into consideration many of Bell’s 18 answers.⁷ (Id.) Lt. Bordewick deemed plaintiff’s question “what is a special unlock” as 19 irrelevant, but plaintiff was able to have Bell explain that a “one-way” is “a decision for a prison 20 guard to allow a prisoner into his cell in-between a scheduled unlock.” (Id.) When asked if one-21 ways were common, Bell responded, “I don’t control the doors.” (Id.) Bell confirmed he was 22 aware that using the grievance process is protected by the First Amendment. (Id.) Lt. Bordewick 23 deemed plaintiff’s follow-up questions irrelevant, except that Bell stated he obtained the info 24 about plaintiff’s previous RVR from SOMS. (Id. at 52-53.) Plaintiff paused to review his 25 documents, and Lt. Bordewick barked, “we’re done you’re done! You’re guilty!” (Id. at 53.)
 26 Plaintiff objected that he had more questions and more witnesses, but Lt. Bordewick refused both.

27 _____
 28 ⁷ Plaintiff alleges that Lt. Bordewick refused plaintiff his right to question Bell, but plaintiff then goes on to relate the questions Bell was asked. (ECF No. 17 at 51-52.)

1 Liberally construed, plaintiff's claim that Lt. Bordewick retaliated against plaintiff based 2 on his protected conduct by finding plaintiff guilty of a false RVR states a potentially cognizable 3 retaliation claim.

4 K. Nineteenth Claim – Defendant Trevino

5 In his nineteenth claim, plaintiff alleges on August 26, 2024, plaintiff was called to the 6 program office, but defendant Trevino denied plaintiff entry. (ECF No. 17 at 54.) Plaintiff told 7 Trevino that plaintiff was called to the program office by the lieutenant, but Trevino told plaintiff
8 he could not go into the program office. (Id.) Plaintiff responded, "fine, you tell the lieutenant 9 you wouldn't allow me to speak to him." (Id.) As plaintiff walked away, Trevino laughed and 10 cursed at plaintiff. (Id.) Plaintiff turned around and stopped a distance away from Trevino and 11 said, "let me see your name guard, I'm writing you up." (Id.) Plaintiff obtained Trevino's name
12 and walked away, at which point Trevino called plaintiff a "fucking piece of shit!" (Id.) Plaintiff 13 returned toward Trevino and asked him who he was cursing at; Trevino took out his mace and 14 started shaking it at plaintiff in a threatening manner. (Id.) Plaintiff and Trevino then had an 15 "unpleasant exchange," lasting a few seconds, and then plaintiff walked away. (Id. at 54-55.)
16 When plaintiff turned around Trevino hit the alarm and walked after plaintiff, who then sat on the 17 ground. (Id. at 55.) Plaintiff alleges that Trevino continued being aggressive and escalated the 18 situation. (Id.) Plaintiff told defendant Deuell not to touch plaintiff, and plaintiff would not 19 speak to him, or go anywhere with Deuell as long as Trevino was near. (Id.) Deuell refused to 20 ask Trevino to leave or de-escalate the situation. (Id.) Shortly after, Sgt. Scott walked over to 21 plaintiff, who told Sgt. Scott that Trevino was escalating the situation, and "to order him to get 22 away from me or I would not speak to [Sgt. Scott]." (Id.) Sgt. Scott ordered Trevino away and 23 said they would speak in the program office. (Id.) Plaintiff told Sgt. Scott plaintiff felt unsafe 24 going anywhere with him, and plaintiff wanted to remain on the yard around witnesses. (Id.) Sgt.
25 Scott insisted plaintiff accompany him to the program office. (Id.) Plaintiff told Sgt. Scott there 26 were people around who witnessed Trevino's misconduct, plaintiff had told Trevino that plaintiff 27 would file a grievance on him, and Trevino continued his retaliatory conduct by cursing at 28 plaintiff, threatening plaintiff with the use of chemicals, and hitting the alarm, and Trevino "is

1 going to consummate his retaliation with a falsified RVR,” and plaintiff must be allowed to 2 gather witnesses. (Id.) Sgt. Scott assured plaintiff he would speak to Trevino, “and the situation
 3 was not so serious as [plaintiff] was making it seem.” (Id. at 55-56.) Deuell was with Sgt. Scott 4 when he would not let plaintiff speak to witnesses, yet Deuell said nothing. (Id. at 56.) Finally,
 5 they took plaintiff to the lieutenant, who said he called plaintiff for a grievance. (Id.) Plaintiff 6 told the lieutenant about the incident with Trevino, that plaintiff is subject to this every time he 7 leaves his cell, and to never call plaintiff for anything except an RVR hearing. (Id.) Plaintiff
 8 returned to his cell and wrote a grievance. (Id.)

9 Liberally construed, plaintiff states a potentially cognizable retaliation claim against 10 defendant Trevino based on his threatening plaintiff with mace and sounding an alarm for no
 11 legitimate correctional purpose after plaintiff threatened to write a grievance against Trevino.⁸

12 L. Twentieth Claim – Defendant Trevino

13 In his twentieth claim, plaintiff alleges on September 2, 2024, plaintiff was served an 14 RVR issued by defendant Trevino based on the August 26, 2024 incident. (Id. at 56.) Plaintiff 15 alleges Trevino falsified many statements concerning what took place on August 26, 2024. (Id.
 16 (citing ECF No. 17 at 215 (RVR).) Liberally construed, plaintiff alleges that Trevino wrote a 17 false RVR against plaintiff because plaintiff threatened to write Trevino up during the August 26, 18 2024 incident. (Id. at 54.) Plaintiff states a potentially cognizable retaliation claim against 19 defendant Trevino.

20 M. Twenty-Second Claim – Defendant Stoer

21 In his twenty-second claim, plaintiff alleges on August 1, 2024, plaintiff filed a grievance 22 on defendant Babcock alleging he was too loud on the public announcement system, which could 23 cause damage to the human ear, and attached a petition signed by multiple inmates who supported 24 the grievance. (ECF No. 17 at 59 (citing ECF No. 17 at 166-70).) Most of the inmate signatures

25 ⁸ However, as to defendants Deuell and Sgt. Scott, plaintiff fails to set forth any specific facts 26 that indicate either defendant acted with a retaliatory motive or in response to plaintiff’s protected 27 conduct. But even if the actions or omissions of defendants Deuell and Sgt. Scott could be 28 construed as being taken in retaliation, plaintiff was merely delayed by them. See Watison, 668
 F.3d at 1114. Plaintiff fails to state cognizable retaliation claims against defendants Deuell and Sgt. Scott.

1 were personally obtained by plaintiff, but a few of the signatures were obtained by other inmates.
2 (Id.) The petition stated, “I have read Adam Michael Kendall’s grievance and agree with his 3 analysis of prison guard Babcock’s misconduct.” (Id.) On September 13, 2024, plaintiff received 4 an RVR for “falsification of a document” issued by defendant Stoer, who claimed that every 5 inmate Stoer interviewed requested to have “their name removed” from the petition. (Id. (citing 6 ECF No. 17 at 220).) Plaintiff alleges that Stoer made other false statements in the RVR. (Id. at 7 60.) Plaintiff was found not guilty of this RVR. (Id. (citing ECF No. 17 at 269-77.) Plaintiff
8 alleges that Stoer issued the false RVR in retaliation for plaintiff’s use of the prison grievance 9 process, which states a potentially cognizable retaliation claim.

10 N. Twenty-Third Claim – Defendant Andrade

11 In his twenty-third claim, plaintiff alleges on June 15, 2024, plaintiff approached the 12 dining hall and guards Matson and Limon said, “good morning Kendall.” Defendant Andrade, a 13 few feet away but within earshot, asked plaintiff for his identification (“ID”). (ECF No. 17 at 61.)
14 Plaintiff told Andrade plaintiff did not have his ID, but Andrade knew who plaintiff was and his 15 fellow guards had identified plaintiff. (Id.) Andrade responded that plaintiff would not eat until 16 he got his ID. (Id.) As plaintiff walked away, Andrade and plaintiff exchanged words, and 17 plaintiff “made clear [he] would be filing a grievance on [Andrade.]” (Id.) Plaintiff only made it 18 a few feet back to his building when an alarm sounded; plaintiff took a seat on a bench during the 19 code. (Id.) Andrade saw plaintiff, making eye contact multiple times, but said nothing. (Id.)
20 After the alarm concluded, plaintiff went to his cell and retrieved his ID. (Id.) Upon his return, 21 Andrade would not allow plaintiff to enter the dining hall. (Id. at 61-62.) Plaintiff sat on a 22 nearby picnic table in front of the dining hall with his feet on the bench and waited to be allowed 23 into the dining hall. (Id. at 62.) Another alarm sounded, and plaintiff moved to sit on the bench 24 of the table. (Id.) Andrade, with prison guard Vargas, approached plaintiff and “aggressively” 25 told plaintiff to sit on the ground. (Id.) Plaintiff told Andrade that plaintiff was already in a 26 seated and secure position, there was no emergency in the immediate vicinity, he would not 27 follow a retaliatory order to sit on the floor, and that the only reason Andrade was telling plaintiff 28 to sit on the floor was because plaintiff files grievances against him and his coworkers, and

1 Andrade knew plaintiff was going to file a grievance against Andrade. (Id.) Plaintiff began 2 writing a grievance, and Andrade said, “you’re going to see I write better than you!” (Id.)
 3 Andrade asked plaintiff for his ID, and plaintiff responded that Andrade knew exactly who 4 plaintiff was, plaintiff was done talking to him, and was not feeding into any more of his 5 retaliation. (Id.) Andrade responded that he would put the yard down if plaintiff did not hand 6 over the ID. (Id.) Plaintiff replied that not providing an ID was not a “yard downable event, and 7 to get away from [plaintiff] because [he] felt uncomfortable.” (Id. at 62-63.) Andrade hit the 8 alarm and reported on his radio that plaintiff would not sit on the floor or give Andrade plaintiff’s 9 ID. (Id.) Andrade then turned to the group of prisoners waiting for medication and said, “alright
 10 everybody, your program is delayed because of Kendall here!” (Id.) Plaintiff replied, “did you 11 really just attempt to incite violence between me and an entire group of prisoners?” Plaintiff 12 turned to the group of prisoners and yelled, “did everyone see this guard’s retaliation, his 13 deliberate attempt to incite violence between us?” (Id.) Prisoners in the group began yelling 14 “yeah, we saw!” and “we were watching!” (Id.) Plaintiff turned to prison guard Vargas and 15 asked him if he saw what just happened, and Vargas shook his head yes. (Id.)

16 The mere threat of harm can be an adverse action. See Watison, 668 F.3d at 1114
 17 (internal citations omitted). Liberally construed, plaintiff states a potentially cognizable 18 retaliation claim against Andrade.

19 O. Twenty-Fourth Claim – Defendant Sgt. Soriano

20 In his twenty-fourth claim, plaintiff alleges on July 30, 2024, tower guard Jammal opened 21 plaintiff’s cell door and said plaintiff was being called to the program office. (ECF No. 17 at 67.)
 22 Plaintiff asked why, and defendant Jammal spoke to plaintiff “rudely.” (Id.) Plaintiff asked 23 Jammal to call the program office and find out why plaintiff was being called, but Jammal 24 refused. (Id.) Plaintiff made clear to Jammal that plaintiff wanted to attend all RVR hearings but 25 would not go the program office for any other reason. (Id.) A few minutes later, Jammal told 26 plaintiff that he would receive thirty days loss of yard issued by Sgt. Soriano for refusing to 27 attend an RVR hearing. (Id.) Plaintiff objected that he did not refuse to attend an RVR hearing 28 and told Jammal to open the door so he could go speak to Sgt. Soriano. (Id.) At the program

1 office, Sgt. Soriano refused to give plaintiff a hearing because plaintiff earlier refused to attend.
 2 (Id.) Plaintiff objected, stating that if Sgt. Soriano looked at the video footage she would see that 3 plaintiff told Jammal plaintiff wanted to attend all RVR hearings. (Id. at 67-68.) Sgt. Soriano 4 still refused to provide plaintiff a hearing, and plaintiff informed her he would be filing suit 5 against her for her misconduct and walked away. (Id. at 68.) Sgt. Soriano yelled, “I’m putting 6 you on C-Status,” which plaintiff alleges is a more severe penalty than the thirty day loss of yard
 7 Jammal told plaintiff he would be receiving. (Id.)

8 Sgt. Soriano’s threat to place plaintiff on C-Status immediately after plaintiff stated he 9 would be suing her is sufficient to state a potentially cognizable retaliation claim.⁹

10 P. Thirtieth Claim – Defendant Pendleton

11 In his thirtieth claim, plaintiff alleges that while plaintiff was housed in building 9, he told 12 defendant Pendleton and other prison guards that plaintiff had scalp issues requiring medication, 13 and if he showers at night, his long wet hair makes it difficult to sleep, and the moisture worsens 14 his scalp condition. (ECF No. 17 at 83.) Pendleton told plaintiff that other prison guards were 15 telling her not to permit plaintiff to shower, after which plaintiff began having problems with 16 Pendleton. (Id.) On September 11, 2024, plaintiff showered right after breakfast so he could 17 apply his medicine. (Id.) Transport arrived to take plaintiff to outside medical for his 18 dermatology appointment. (Id.) The next day, Pendleton approached plaintiff in the dayroom 19 and began harassing plaintiff about the shower he took the previous day. (Id.) Pendleton told 20 plaintiff he could not shower unless he asked her. Plaintiff reiterated his scalp issues he had 21 earlier related to Pendleton, reminded her he showed her his medication, and was trying to get a 22 reasonable accommodation to apply the needed medication. (Id. at 83-84 (citing ECF No. 17 at 23 244).) Plaintiff alleges Pendleton “persisted.” (Id. at 84.) Plaintiff told Pendleton she knew 24 plaintiff’s scalp was bleeding and he was in pain because he previously told her that, and she and 25

26 ⁹ Plaintiff’s allegations fail to state a retaliation claim against defendant Jammal. Plaintiff admits 27 he did not go to the program office when Jammal initially opened the cell door and told plaintiff 28 he had been called to the program office. That Jammal refused to call the program office upon plaintiff’s request is not in any way connected to plaintiff’s protected conduct. Similarly, Sgt.
 Soriano’s refusal to hold a hearing is not connected to plaintiff’s protected conduct.

her fellow prison guards “were in Eighth Amendment territory” and if they continue to “block” plaintiff from applying his medication they could face court action. (Id.) Pendleton said she was writing plaintiff up for taking a shower on September 11, 2024. (Id.) Plaintiff responded by stating he would file a grievance on her, and she would be making the list of MCSP guards plaintiff was suing for retaliation. (Id.) After that, Pendleton wrote an RVR against plaintiff for “unlawful influence.” (Id. (citing ECF No. 17 at 248).) Subsequently, the RVR was dismissed for failing to state unlawful influence, and plaintiff was found not guilty. (Id. (citing ECF No. 17 at 259).)

Liberally construed, plaintiff states a potentially cognizable retaliation claim against defendant Pendleton based on her filing an RVR against plaintiff in retaliation for his statement he would file a grievance against her.

VIII. REMAINING RETALIATION CLAIMS ARE NOT COGNIZABLE

The Court carefully reviewed all of plaintiff’s claims. Given the lengthy pleading (101 pages of pleading plus 151 pages of exhibits) alleging a myriad of unrelated claims against dozens of different defendants, many of which do not state cognizable retaliation claims, and because the non-cognizable claims share similar deficiencies, the Court will not separately address each claim that fails to state a cognizable retaliation claim. The Court provides the following summary to provide notice to plaintiff of the deficiencies and assist him should he elect to file an amended complaint or separate lawsuits to raise the unrelated, yet cognizable claims.

A. Pleading Must Address Each Element of Retaliation Claim

Plaintiff’s first claim (ECF No. 17 at 17) and many of his subsequent retaliation claims fail to address each element of a retaliation cause of action, identified above. Rather than simply recounting what happened, plaintiff must plead facts which suggest an absence of legitimate correctional goals for the challenged conduct, and plead facts showing that it was plaintiff’s exercise of his First Amendment rights that motivated the alleged adverse action. Plaintiff must allege either a chilling effect on future First Amendment activities, or that he suffered some other harm that is “more than minimal.” Watison, 668 F.3d at 1114. Indeed, in his first claim, although plaintiff claims he was denied the guard’s names, his grievance confirmed he correctly

1 identified both guards in his grievance. (ECF No. 17 at 110.)

2 B. Pleading Must Include Charging Allegations Against Each Defendant

3 The FAC includes claims that do not including any charging allegations as to a named 4 defendant for that claim, which is not sufficient to state a claim. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 8. For 5 example, in his twenty-fifth claim, plaintiff alleges retaliation and excessive force against 6 defendant Lambert (and others), but plaintiff included no charging allegations as to defendant 7 Lambert. (ECF No. 17 at 69.) Plaintiff thus fails to state a claim against Lambert.

8 C. Pleading Must Allege Causal Connection between Retaliatory Motive and Adverse 9 Action

10 The FAC recounts incidents at many RVR hearings, but just because the alleged 11 violations took place at a disciplinary hearing, or adjudicated issues plaintiff contended were 12 based on his First Amendment activities, does not demonstrate that the actions or omissions of the 13 hearing officer were based on plaintiff's First Amendment activities. For example, in plaintiff's 14 seventh claim against Lt. Fisk, plaintiff alleged the following:

15 On June 6, 2024, defendant Lt. Fisk held a hearing on Brazil's RVR issued about the April 16 16, 2024 incident, and refused to allow plaintiff to call witnesses or ask questions. (ECF No. 17 17 at 27.) Plaintiff states he told Lt. Fisk that Brazil's RVR was continued retaliation, which 18 plaintiff previously warned Lt. Fisk would happen absent intervention. (Id.) Plaintiff informed 19 Lt. Fisk that plaintiff had permission from building officers to obtain grievances from the 20 program office that day. Plaintiff alleges the hearing was contentious, and multiple times while 21 plaintiff was advocating for himself and had broken no rules, Lt. Fisk threatened to kick plaintiff 22 out and hold the hearing without plaintiff. (Id.) In response to plaintiff's argument that he had 23 permission to be in the program office, Lt. Fisk informed plaintiff that Brazil had revoked 24 plaintiff's permission to be in the program office. (Id. at 28.) Plaintiff responded that Lt. Fisk
25 was "sanctioning the retaliation of prison guard Brazil" and plaintiff would take legal action 26 against Lt. Fisk if he "forced" plaintiff. (Id.) Lt. Fisk responded, "look, I'm all for you filing 27 grievances and asserting your rights through the grievance process." (Id.) Plaintiff replied, "I'm 28 not just going to file a grievance on you, you'll see a federal judge for this." (Id.) Lt. Fisk stood up, said he had a pressing prison guard issue that required his presence and would reconvene the following Tuesday. (Id. at 28-29.) Plaintiff was not called to meet with Lt. Fisk again. (Id. at 29.) Plaintiff was found not guilty of Brazil's RVR. (Id. at 27.)

Plaintiff fails to allege facts demonstrating that on June 6, 2024, defendant Lt. Fisk took some adverse action because of plaintiff's First Amendment activity. Although plaintiff informed Lt. Fisk during the hearing that plaintiff would file a grievance against Lt. Fisk, the Court cannot construe Lt. Fisk's action of leaving the hearing for a "pressing prison guard issue" constitutes an action adverse to plaintiff. No other adverse action is identified. Plaintiff fails to state a retaliation claim against defendant Lt. Fisk. See also ECF No. 17 at 21-22, 31, 39.

D. Speculation Insufficient

Mere speculation that a defendant acted out of retaliation is insufficient. See Wood v. Yordy, 753 F.3d 899, 904-905 (9th Cir. 2014) ("We have repeatedly held that mere speculation that defendants acted out of retaliation is not sufficient."). Many of plaintiff's claims are based on his speculation that the defendant was acting in retaliation. For example, in his twenty-ninth claim, plaintiff speculates that defendants Captain Stacy and Gibbs returned mail in retaliation. (ECF No. 17 at 82.) But plaintiff included no facts showing that either defendant acted with a retaliatory motive or were even aware of plaintiff's protected conduct.

Plaintiff is required to allege facts demonstrating a retaliatory motive or facts from which a retaliatory motive can be inferred.

E. Delay Alone Insufficient Adverse Action

In his eleventh claim, plaintiff alleges that defendants Babcock, Bell and Nardi delayed the processing of plaintiff's legal mail and his subsequent return to his cell. (ECF No. 17 at 34-36.) However, plaintiff was ultimately allowed to mail his legal mail, and the delay was less than a day. Plaintiff's delay in his ability to enter his cell, while frustrating for plaintiff, was inconsequential or de minimis and "is not actionable adverse action." Watison, 668 F.3d at 1114. Plaintiff fails to state cognizable retaliation claims against defendants Babcock, Bell and Nardi.

F. Counseling Chronos Insufficient to State Retaliation Claim

Plaintiff's claims based on counseling chronos are not sufficient to state a retaliation

claim. Courts within the Ninth Circuit have held that counseling only RVRs and custodial counseling chronos (as they were previously called), do not amount to adverse actions. See, e.g., Vallery v. Botkin, 2020 WL 7425343, at *4-5 (E.D. Cal. Dec. 18, 2020) (“Counseling Only Rules Violation Report . . . is not an adverse action for plaintiff’s retaliation claim.”), findings and recommendations adopted, 2021 WL 843614 (E.D. Cal. Mar. 5, 2021); Robinson v. Gen. Manager of Calpia, 2022 WL 5052680, at *7 (C.D. Cal. Aug. 22, 2022), report and recommendation adopted, 2022 WL 5081834 (C.D. Cal. Oct. 4, 2022) (counseling only RVRs “do not amount to adverse actions”); Heilman v. Furster, 2018 WL 2588900, at *11 (C.D. Cal. May 1, 2018) (collecting cases and finding the “lack of concrete harm -- whether threatened or immediate -- undermines the allegation that the [Counseling] Chronos were adverse actions.”), findings and recommendations adopted, 2018 WL 2472891 (C.D. Cal. May 31, 2018).¹⁰

In his twelfth claim against defendant Babcock, plaintiff alleges as follows. In July 2024, plaintiff received a false RVR, Log No. 7464770, from Babcock, claiming that plaintiff suddenly, without justification, began cursing at Babcock, despite acknowledging that plaintiff had requested cell entry several times and Babcock refused to open the cell door. (Id. at 37.) Plaintiff claims that Babcock filed this RVR because plaintiff filed a grievance on Babcock and his fellow guards. (Id.)

On July 19, 2024, plaintiff was sitting at a dayroom table when there was an alarm in a different building. Babcock announced over the loud speaker, “get down.” (Id.) Plaintiff remained sitting. (Id.) Defendant Nardi walked over and told plaintiff he needed to get on the floor. (Id.) Plaintiff responded that he had an ongoing bacterial infection making it painful to sit in certain positions so he would not sit on the floor. (Id.) Nardi responded, “okay, you’re good”

¹⁰ The Court recognizes that some district courts have found certain counseling chronos sufficient. See, e.g., Clemente v. Stinson, 2022 WL 584210, at *4 (E.D. Cal. Feb. 25, 2022) (informational counseling chrono had “direct and harmful consequence” of denial of plaintiff’s application for single-cell status); Brown v. Chothia, 2021 WL 2913076, at *13 (E.D. Cal. July 12, 2021) (rejecting proposition that “only formal discipline” from a counseling chrono may constitute an adverse action), report and recommendation adopted, 2021 WL 4132341 (E.D. Cal. Sept. 10, 2021). As described above, plaintiff’s allegations based on counseling RVRs/ chronos are insufficient and distinguishable from these cases.

1 and walked away. (Id.) Babcock said nothing further that day, but shortly after, plaintiff received
2 another RVR, Log No. 7472968, called a counseling chrono, issued by Babcock claiming plaintiff
3 disobeyed an order to get down. (Id. (citing ECF No. 17 at 181 (July 19, 2024 RVR)).) Babcock
4 recommended that plaintiff be considered a program failure and put on “C Status.” (Id.) Plaintiff 5 objects that although the RVR was called a counseling chrono, Babcock made no attempt to 6 “counsel” plaintiff, and alleges Babcock “weaponized a counseling chrono in retaliation for 7 [plaintiff’s] participation in protected conduct – filing grievances and saying [he] would file
8 grievances.” (Id. at 38.)

9 Here, though plaintiff attempts to avoid the counseling chrono characterization by 10 claiming defendant “weaponized” the RVR, plaintiff identifies no disciplinary effect resulting 11 from the counseling only RVR. The reasoning of the district courts finding counseling chronos 12 not to be adverse actions, set forth above, applies equally to plaintiff’s claim. In the instant case, 13 the counseling only RVR issued to plaintiff was informational only with no alleged disciplinary 14 effect. Thus, the counseling only RVR does not constitute an adverse action. Based on these 15 circumstances, it is not likely that issuance of the counseling only RVR would chill First 16 Amendment activities. Further, the FAC itself alleges that plaintiff did not follow an order during 17 an alarm. Ordering inmates to prone out during an alarm is a legitimate penological purpose.
18 Plaintiff failed to state a cognizable retaliation claim against defendant Babcock.

19 G. Systemic Retaliation

20 Because plaintiff alleges “systemic retaliation” in connection with most of his unrelated 21 claims, the Court carefully reviewed every alleged retaliation claim to determine whether plaintiff 22 could state a viable claim under a systemic retaliation theory. Overall, viewing plaintiff’s FAC as 23 a whole, the Court cannot find that plaintiff can state a broad “systemic retaliation” claim. Even 24 when construing the voluminous FAC liberally given plaintiff’s pro se status, most of the 25 retaliation causes of action alleged fail to state a cognizable retaliation claim, there was little 26 overlap among the 41 defendants named, and the timing alone rarely suggested a retaliatory 27 motive. The FAC also alleges that some of the incidents alleged involved plaintiff’s own refusal 28 to follow orders, including during alarms at the prison. While plaintiff is entitled to pursue First Amendment activities, he is also required to follow lawful orders by correctional officers, even if plaintiff disagrees with them. The FAC also alleges repeated demands by plaintiff to speak to a superior officer, that correctional officers do something at plaintiff's request or demand, and questioning correctional officers' orders, which are not constitutionally protected activities. Courts have found that verbal challenges to prison officials that are argumentative and confrontational are not protected by the First Amendment. See Johnson v. Carroll, 2012 WL 2069561 at *33-34 (E.D. Cal. June 7, 2012) (citing cases). The Court finds that plaintiff fails to state a cognizable systemic retaliation claim based on the FAC as a whole, as well as based solely on those allegations that support potentially cognizable retaliation claims.

H. Conclusion

In his second amended complaint, plaintiff should not renew retaliation claims unless they are based on incidents where the Court found plaintiff stated a potentially cognizable retaliation claim identified in Section VII above.

IX. OTHER COGNIZABLE CONSTITUTIONAL CLAIMS: EXCESSIVE FORCE AND FOURTH AMENDMENT SEARCH

A. Excessive Force Standards

"In its prohibition of 'cruel and unusual punishments,' the Eighth Amendment places restraints on prison officials, who may not . . . use excessive physical force against prisoners." Farmer v. Brennan, 511 U.S. 825, 832 (1994). "[W]henver prison officials stand accused of using excessive physical force in violation of the [Eighth Amendment], the core judicial inquiry is . . . whether force was applied in a good-faith effort to maintain or restore discipline, or maliciously and sadistically to cause harm." Hudson v. McMillian, 503 U.S. 1, 6-7 (1992). When determining whether the force was excessive, the court looks to the "extent of injury suffered by an inmate. . . the need for application of force, the relationship between that need and the amount of force used, the threat 'reasonably perceived by the responsible officials,' and 'any efforts made to temper the severity of a forceful response.' " Hudson, 503 U.S. at 7 (quoting Whitley v. Albers, 475 U.S. 312, 321 (1986)). While de minimis uses of physical force generally do not implicate the Eighth Amendment, significant injury need not be evident in the context of

1 an excessive force claim, because “[w]hen prison officials maliciously and sadistically use force
2 to cause harm, contemporary standards of decency always are violated.” Hudson, 503 U.S. at 9.

3 B. Twenty-Fifth Claim – Defendants Prison Guards Sgt. Perez, Perez, Brazil, and 4 Beckham and Multiple Unknown Defendants – Excessive Force

5 In his twenty-fifth claim, plaintiff alleges excessive force as to defendants Sgt. Perez, 6 prison guard Perez, Brazil and Beckham, as well as other unknown prison guards.¹¹ (ECF No. 17 7 at 69.) Plaintiff alleges on the morning of September 23, 2024, plaintiff heard his cellmate 8 speaking to other inmates attempting to incite violence by paying prisoners to attack plaintiff, and 9 after yard release he heard other inmates making threats toward plaintiff. (ECF No. 17 at 69.)
10 Plaintiff told prison guard Aguilar about the threats and requested to be removed from the yard.
11 (Id.) Aguilar called other guards, and plaintiff was escorted to the program office and put in a 12 holding cell. (Id.) Shortly after, plaintiff was escorted to the program office to speak with prison 13 guard Sgt. Perez. (Id.) Plaintiff alleges defendant prison guard Perez was “immediately hostile” 14 and “spoke aggressively” at plaintiff.¹² (Id.) Plaintiff told prison guard Perez that plaintiff 15 overheard inmates threatening plaintiff, and at least one threatened to stab plaintiff. (Id. at 69-16 70.) Plaintiff asked prison guard Perez to watch the video and listen to the audio, telling him a 17 short investigation would show plaintiff’s safety was in jeopardy. (Id. at 70.) Prison guard Perez 18 refused to watch the video or investigate, but instead told plaintiff to go back to the yard and 19 conduct his own investigation. (Id.) Plaintiff asked prison guard Perez to put plaintiff in ASU
20 pending investigation, but Perez refused. (Id.) Plaintiff told prison guard Perez that plaintiff 21 could not go back to the yard and would not go back to participate in the violence that Perez was 22 sanctioning. (Id.) Prison guard Perez responded, “fine! Stand here all day, I don’t care!” (Id.)
23 While waiting, plaintiff heard multiple prison guards, including Aguilera, Mott and others,

24 _____
25 ¹¹ As described above, this claim was also alleged against defendant Lambert, but no charging 26 allegations against Lambert were made. Therefore, plaintiff fails to state a claim against Lambert.

27 ¹² The Court identifies each Perez defendant just as plaintiff did in his first amended complaint.
28 If plaintiff does not know the initials of their first names, when plaintiff files another pleading raising this claim, he should identify the first prison guard Perez as Sgt. Perez (if that is accurate) rather than simply “prison guard,” or may wish to add an identifying character to distinguish between the two Perez defendants, for example, Perez-A and Perez-B.

1 mocking plaintiff, making jokes and laughing about plaintiff's safety being in jeopardy. (Id.)

2 Around 1:00 p.m. there was a code, and the alarm sounded. (Id.) Prison guard Perez told 3 plaintiff to take a seat on the floor, after which other prison guards surrounded plaintiff. (Id.)
4 Prison guard Perez barked "go wait outside!" (Id.) Plaintiff told prison guard Perez that he 5 would not go wait outside because of his safety concerns. (Id.) Without warning, prison guard 6 Perez reached down, grabbed plaintiff's arm and tried to drag plaintiff across the program office 7 floor. (Id.) Plaintiff gently pulled back his arm and told prison guard Perez he did not have 8 authority to put his hands on plaintiff, and that regulations require verbal persuasion before force
9 is used. (Id. at 70-71.) Without warning, another prison guard, also named Perez, reached down
10 and grabbed plaintiff's arm tight. (Id. at 71.) Plaintiff felt pain as prison guard Perez yanked 11 plaintiff's arm and tried to drag plaintiff across the program office floor. (Id.) Plaintiff also felt 12 pain when he snatched his arm from the grip of prison guard Perez, and told Perez "you cannot 13 just assault me like that, do not touch me again." (Id.) Prison guard Perez paused a moment, and 14 no guard attempted to de-escalate the situation. (Id.) Then, without warning, prison guard Perez 15 reached down again more aggressively, viciously grabbed plaintiff's arm, and tried to drag 16 plaintiff across the program office floor. (Id.) Feeling pain, plaintiff hit prison guard Perez in the 17 chest as plaintiff pulled his arm back to get him to release plaintiff and stop the pain. (Id.) After 18 plaintiff got his arm back, he made no other threatening motion, and was in a seated position on 19 the floor. (Id.) At that time, five prison guards, starting with the two Perez's, surrounded 20 plaintiff and began punching plaintiff in the face. (Id.) Plaintiff feared for his life and began 21 fighting back. (Id. at 72.) Plaintiff was forced onto his stomach as guards sat on his back forcing 22 air from plaintiff's lungs. (Id.) Defendant Brazil put cuffs tightly on plaintiff's legs, cutting off 23 circulation and causing pain. (Id.) Another guard, or perhaps Brazil, put cuffs tightly on 24 plaintiff's wrists, and then sat on them cutting off circulation and causing pain. (Id.) Even after 25 being fully restrained, the guards continued to sit on plaintiff's back forcing air from his lungs.
26 (Id.) Plaintiff told the guards he couldn't breathe, but defendants Beckham, Brazil and others 27 made jokes, laughed, and made comments like 'you're talking just fine!' Plaintiff replied that his 28 hands and legs were restrained, "remove me from the prone position, I can't breathe!" (Id. at 72-

73.) Beckham, Brazil and other guards laughed some more, and remarked if plaintiff “was talking [he] was breathing.” (Id. at 73.) Plaintiff screamed “I can’t breathe, I can’t breathe,” until he had no more air, hoping that the camera in the hall would catch the audio. (Id.) Only once plaintiff’s breathing was dangerously labored did the guards remove plaintiff from the prone position and put him on his side. (Id.) Plaintiff requested his vital signs be checked, but guards refused. Eventually, plaintiff was able to sit up, and Beckham, Brazil and other guards refused to put plaintiff in a holding cell and remove his restraints. (Id.) Plaintiff alleges that to relieve the pain, he moved his hands from behind his back to the front of his body while still restrained, but remained sitting peacefully on the floor. (Id. at 73-74.) Beckham and other guards became hostile. (Id. at 74.) Plaintiff told Beckham and the other guards plaintiff was sitting peacefully and would go where they asked, but he could not sit with his arms restrained behind his back because he was in pain. (Id.) Plaintiff alleges the guards attacked him again, putting plaintiff on his stomach with Beckham saying, “stop resisting!” even though plaintiff was not. (Id.) The guards refused to return plaintiff to his side, and plaintiff again had difficulty breathing. Beckham was pushing plaintiff’s body into the ground, compounding plaintiff’s difficulty in breathing. (Id.) Plaintiff was partially placed on his side such that he could take in some air, but it was “torture.” (Id.) After plaintiff struggled to breathe a long while, Beckham told plaintiff they were going to ASU. (Id.) Plaintiff responded that he needed his glasses and tablet. (Id.) Beckham and the other guards refused to retrieve them, even though they were only a few feet away. (Id. at 75.) Beckham and the other guards told plaintiff to stand. (Id.) Plaintiff told Beckham and the others that plaintiff would go with them willingly if they would grab his glasses and tablet, but he would not stand up without them. (Id.) Beckham and the other guards picked plaintiff up, took a photo of him, and dragged plaintiff outside. (Id.)

Plaintiff states potentially cognizable Eighth Amendment claims against defendants Sgt. Perez, prison guard Perez, Brazil and Beckham for the alleged use of excessive force; their comments during the use of force raises an inference that they used excessive force maliciously

1 and sadistically to cause plaintiff pain.¹³

2 C. Twenty-Fifth Claim – Defendants Beckham, Rowe and Reynolds – Excessive Force

3 In his twenty-fifth claim, plaintiff alleges that once plaintiff was dragged outside the 4 program office, plaintiff was “thrown on a golf cart and forced to lay down. (ECF No. 17 at 75.)
5 Defendants Beckham and Rowe strapped plaintiff’s chest to the cart. (Id.) As Rowe was 6 strapping plaintiff legs, plaintiff was in pain and moved to avoid the strap; Beckham and the other 7 guards attacked plaintiff again. (Id. at 75-76.) Despite being in leg restraints, Rowe bent
8 plaintiff’s knee back in an unnatural way so that plaintiff thought his leg might snap. (Id. at 76.)
9 Plaintiff screamed, in excruciating pain, but Rowe continued bending plaintiff’s knee. (Id.) 10 Beckham began saying, “you’re not going to spit on me!” even though plaintiff never spat on 11 Beckham, and the guards attacked plaintiff again. (Id.) Beckham and Reynolds forced plaintiff’s 12 head into the golf cart, straining and tearing plaintiff’s neck muscles. (Id.) When the cart pulled 13 outside the gate heading toward the ASU, Rowe moved closer to plaintiff and said, “I’m going to 14 fucking kill you! You hear me! I said I’m going to fucking kill you! When we get to ASU I’m 15 going to break your fucking leg!” (Id.) Plaintiff called Rowe a coward and plaintiff said he 16 would tell the federal judge exactly what Rowe said. (Id.) Rowe responded, “I don’t fucking 17 care!” (Id.) Defendant Reynolds said, “what can you say, we didn’t hear anything!” (Id.)
18 Plaintiff alleges Beckham concurred. (Id.)

19 Plaintiff states cognizable Eighth Amendment excessive force claims against defendants 20 Beckham, Rowe and Reynolds; their comments raise an inference of their malicious and sadistic 21 intent to use excessive force to cause plaintiff pain.¹⁴

22 ¹³ The FAC also alleges a retaliation claim against these defendants. While plaintiff claims Sgt.
23 Perez was immediately hostile and spoke aggressively to plaintiff, plaintiff includes no facts 24 showing that such hostility was connected to plaintiff’s First Amendment activity. Plaintiff 25 alleges no facts demonstrating that any of these named defendants were aware of plaintiff’s First 26 Amendment activities, and sets forth no statements any of them made that would suggest a retaliatory motive. Thus, plaintiff fails to state cognizable retaliation claims against defendants Sgt. Perez, prison guard Perez, Brazil and Beckham.

27 ¹⁴ Plaintiff again fails to allege any facts connecting these events to plaintiff’s First Amendment 28 conduct, and therefore fails to state cognizable retaliation claims against defendants Beckham, Rowe and Reynolds.

D. Twenty-Fifth Claim – Defendants Beckham, Rowe, Reynolds and Unknown Prison Guards – Fourth Amendment Unreasonable Strip Search and Excessive Force

In his twenty-fifth claim, plaintiff further alleges that upon arrival at ASU, defendants Beckham, Rowe and Reynolds and other prison guards carried plaintiff into the ASU. (ECF No. 17 at 77.) Plaintiff had pain in his shoulders, wrist and ankles. (Id.) Plaintiff alleges he was thrown in front of the cell, and all of his clothes were cut off, leaving him naked in front of the cell. (Id.) Beckham and the guards put a triangular piece of metal on plaintiff's wrist, and he was thrown in the cell. Once the metal piece was removed, plaintiff was left naked in the cell. (Id.) Plaintiff requested clothes to no avail. (Id.) Plaintiff was told by an unidentified guard that plaintiff would not be given clothes because Beckham ordered ASU guards to not provide clothes to plaintiff. (Id.) Plaintiff claims the clothes that were cut off were never searched and remained in front of the cell for days. (Id.)

a. Fourth Amendment Search

The Court first addresses plaintiff's Fourth Amendment claim. Turner v. Safley, 482 U.S. 78, 89 (1987), provides the standard for reviewing alleged infringements of prisoners' constitutional rights. See also Washington v. Harper, 494 U.S. 210, 224 (1990) (stating that Turner applies whenever "the needs of prison administration implicate constitutional rights"); Michenfelder v. Sumner, 860 F.2d 328, 331 (9th Cir. 1988) (applying the Turner standard to prisoners' allegations of Fourth Amendment violations). Turner provides that "when a prison regulation impinges on inmates' constitutional rights, the regulation is valid if it is reasonably related to legitimate penological interests." Turner, 482 U.S. at 89.

Searches of prisoners must be reasonable to be constitutional. See Michenfelder, 860 F.2d at 332. The reasonableness of a particular search of a prisoner is determined by applying the balancing test the Supreme Court announced in Bell v. Wolfish, 441 U.S. 520, 559 (1979) in which the high court wrote:

The test of reasonableness under the Fourth Amendment is not capable of precise definition or mechanical application. In each case it requires a balancing of the need for the particular search against the invasion of personal rights that the search entails. Courts must consider the scope of the particular intrusion, the manner in which it is conducted, the justification for initiating it, and the place in which it is conducted.

Bell, 441 U.S. at 559. In Fourth Amendment cases, “[a]n action is ‘reasonable’ . . . regardless of the individual officer’s state of mind, ‘as long as the circumstances, viewed objectively, justify [the] action.’” Brigham City, Utah v. Stuart, 547 U.S. 398, 404, (2006) (quoting Scott v. United States, 436 U.S. 128, 138 (1978)); see also Nunez v. Duncan, 591 F.3d 1217, 1228 (9th Cir. 2010). Thus, defendants’ subjective intent is irrelevant, but that does not end the Court’s inquiry. See Nunez, 591 F.3d at 1228. The issue is whether the search was “excessive, vindictive, harassing, and unrelated to any legitimate penological interest.” See Michenfelder, 860 F.2d at 332.

Here, liberally construed, it appears plaintiff may be able to state a Fourth Amendment claim against the defendants who stripped plaintiff naked where it is alleged that plaintiff was brought to the ASU from the program office in full restraints and the guards did not search the clothing stripped off of plaintiff; and where there was no allegation that plaintiff was hiding a weapon or was suicidal.

b. Excessive Force

Plaintiff’s allegations also state an Eighth Amendment excessive force claim against defendants Beckham, Rowe and Reynolds.¹⁵

X. OTHER NON-COGNIZABLE CONSTITUTIONAL CLAIMS

A. Twenty-Sixth Claim – Defendant Warden Patrick Covello – Eighth Amendment Deliberate Indifference and Retaliation

In his twenty-sixth claim, plaintiff alleges on October 1, 2024, plaintiff was called to committee in ASU. (ECF No. 17 at 78.) Defendant Covello told plaintiff he was being charged with battery on a peace officer and the RVR was being referred to the district attorney for prosecution. (Id.) Plaintiff asked, “How do you watch that video, and decide to charge me with ¹⁵ Plaintiff also alleged these acts constituted retaliation, but plaintiff again failed to provide any facts demonstrating a causal connection between the actions of defendants Beckham, Rowe and Reynolds and plaintiff’s protected conduct, and therefore plaintiff fails to state cognizable retaliation claims against them.

1 anything? Your guards put their hands on me absent any verbal persuasion and refused to remove 2 me from a dangerous situation when I told them I had safety concerns. Your guards violated 3 policy, and the refusal to remove me from the prone position, while my hands and legs are 4 restrained, and I was screaming I can't breathe." (Id.) Plaintiff alleges Warden Covello had a 5 nervous look on his face and refused to answer plaintiff's questions. (Id.) All of plaintiff's 6 privileges were taken, and he was remanded to ASU. (Id. (citing ECF No. 17 at 279 (Sept. 23, 7 2024 RVR)).)

8 In connection with Warden Covello, plaintiff alleges retaliation and Eighth Amendment 9 "deliberate indifference." (Id. at 78.) Warden Covello's guilty finding, standing alone, is 10 insufficient to state a retaliation claim. Plaintiff identifies no facts showing a retaliatory motive, 11 and fails to explain how these allegations demonstrate deliberate indifference on the part of 12 Warden Covello. Plaintiff fails to state a cognizable retaliation claim against Warden Covello.

13 B. Thirty-First Claim – Defendant Jeff Macomber – Deliberate Indifference and 14 Systemic Retaliation

15 In his last claim, plaintiff alleges that defendant Jeff Macomber, Secretary of the CDCR, 16 and "responsible parties of the Office of the Inspector General" were deliberately indifferent and 17 engaged in systemic retaliation. (ECF No. 17 at 85.) Plaintiff alleges that in September, his 18 mother contacted Jeff Macomber and the office of the inspector general. (ECF No. 17 at 85 19 (citing ECF No. 17 at 253).) Plaintiff alleges that both Macomber and the office of the inspector 20 general were put on notice of the retaliation and the assault at MCSP but refused to intervene.
 21 (Id. at 85 (citing ECF No. 17 at 255).) Plaintiff alleges that the office of the inspector general and 22 the secretary of the CDCR are "enablers of prisons like MCSP," and that prison guards at MCSP 23 are "able to commit misconduct carefree" because the office of the inspector general and the 24 CDCR secretary are deliberately indifferent. (Id. at 85.)

25 An individual defendant is not liable on a civil rights claim unless the facts establish the 26 defendant's personal involvement in the constitutional deprivation or a causal connection between 27 the defendant's wrongful conduct and the alleged constitutional deprivation. See Hansen v.
 28 Black, 885 F.2d 642, 646 (9th Cir. 1989); Johnson v. Duffy, 588 F.2d 740, 743-44 (9th Cir.

1 1978). That is, plaintiff may not sue any official on the theory that the official is liable for the 2 unconstitutional conduct of his or her subordinates. Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 679 (2009).
3 The requisite causal connection between a supervisor's wrongful conduct and the violation of the 4 prisoner's constitutional rights can be established in a number of ways, including by 5 demonstrating that a supervisor's own culpable action or inaction was a cause of plaintiff's injury.
6 Starr v. Baca, 652 F.3d 1202, 1208 (9th Cir. 2011).

7 Ms. Kendall's letter to defendant Macomber does not bear a date, but because she 8 references the attack on plaintiff in the program office, which occurred on September 23, 2024, 9 her letter must have been written on that date or later, depending on when plaintiff contacted her.
10 (Id.) Therefore, by then, there was nothing Macomber could do to intervene in the incidents that 11 had already taken place before the letter was received. Because plaintiff alleges no facts 12 demonstrating that Macomber was aware of the previous alleged retaliatory acts, his failure to act 13 after Macomber received Ms. Kendall's letter is insufficient to state a deliberate indifference or 14 retaliation claim.

15 Similarly, plaintiff does not indicate when in September Ms. Kendall notified the office of 16 the inspector general. On September 30, 2024, the office responded to Ms. Kendall by email, 17 noting they had received her letter, and subsequently spoke with her by phone on September 30, 18 2024. (ECF No. 17 at 255.) These dates suggest that the alleged retaliatory acts had already 19 taken place by the time Ms. Kendall notified the office of the inspector general. Further, by 20 October 18, 2024, the office of the inspector general had concluded its investigation, and 21 informed Ms. Kendall that "no intervention is warranted by our office at this time." (Id. at 256.)
22 Although plaintiff claims the office of the inspector general "refused to intervene," the document
23 provided by plaintiff demonstrates that the office investigated Ms. Kendall's claims. (Id. at 256.)
24 Absent facts not alleged here, the office's determination that no intervention was warranted does 25 not demonstrate the office's deliberate indifference or retaliation.

26 Plaintiff fails to state cognizable civil rights claims against defendant Macomber and the 27 "responsible parties" of the office of the inspector general.

XI. STATE LAW CLAIMS

As noted above, plaintiff alleges state law claims including violation of California Civil Code § 1572, “assault and battery,” and “deprivation of property.” (ECF No. 17 at 14.)

Although the court may exercise supplemental jurisdiction over state law claims, plaintiffs must first have a cognizable claim for relief under federal law. See 28 U.S.C. § 1367. Moreover, if a plaintiff pursues state law claims, the plaintiff must clearly identify each claim and demonstrate compliance with the California Government Claims Act¹⁶ as to each claim. Cal. Gov’t Code § 810 et seq.

Under the California Government Claims Act, set forth in California Government Code sections 810 et seq., a plaintiff may not bring a suit for monetary damages against a public employee or entity unless the plaintiff first presented the claim to the California Victim Compensation and Government Claims Board (“Board”), and the Board acted on the claim, or the time for doing so expired. Compliance with this “claim presentation requirement” constitutes an element of a cause of action for damages against a public entity or official. State v. Superior Court (Bodde), 32 Cal. 4th 1234, 1244 (2004). Thus, timely presentation of a claim under the Government Claims Act is an element of the cause of action and must be pled in the complaint. Id. at 1237, 1240; see also Mangold v. Cal. Pub. Utils. Comm’n, 67 F.3d 1470, 1477 (9th Cir. 1995). The plaintiff must present facts demonstrating compliance, rather than simply conclusions suggesting as much. Shirk v. Vista Unified School Dist., 42 Cal. 4th 201, 209 (2007), as modified (Oct. 10, 2007). Such requirements also apply to state law claims included in a federal action under § 1983. See Volis v. Housing Auth. of the City of L.A. Emps., 670 F. App’x 543, 544 (9th Cir. 2016).

To be timely, a claim must be presented to the Board “not later than six months after the accrual of the cause of action.” Cal. Govt. Code § 911.2. Thereafter, “any suit brought against a public entity” must be commenced no more than six months after the public entity rejects the claim. Cal. Govt. Code, § 945.6, subd. (a)(1). Federal courts must require compliance with the California Government Claims Act for pendant state law claims that seek damages against state employees or entities. Willis v. Reddin, 418 F.2d 702, 704 (9th Cir. 1969); Mangold, 67 F.3d at 1477. State tort claims included in a federal action, filed pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983, may proceed only if the claims were presented in compliance with the applicable exhaustion requirements. Karim-Panahi v. Los Angeles Police Department, 839 F.2d 621, 627 (9th Cir. 1988); Butler v. Los Angeles County, 617 F. Supp. 2d 994, 1001 (C.D. Cal. 2008).

Here, plaintiff's FAC includes no allegations concerning compliance with the California Government Claims Act. Therefore, plaintiff's state law claims are dismissed without prejudice.

XII. EXHIBITS

Plaintiff submitted 177 pages of exhibits to his FAC (ECF No. 17 at 108-285), even more exhibits than he appended to his original complaint (ECF No. 1 at 113-253). While exhibits are permissible, Fed. R. Civ. P. 10(c), they are not necessary in the federal system of notice pleading, Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a). Plaintiff is advised that it is not the duty of the court to look through all of his exhibits to determine whether or not he has claims cognizable under § 1983. Rather, the court looks to the factual allegations contained in the FAC to determine whether or not plaintiff has stated a cognizable claim for relief under § 1983. Exhibits should not be submitted where (1) they serve only to confuse the record and burden the court, or (2) they are intended as future evidence. If this action reaches a juncture at which the submission of evidence is appropriate and necessary (e.g., summary judgment or trial), plaintiff will have the opportunity at that time to submit his evidence to the court.

XIII. LEAVE TO AMEND

If plaintiff chooses to amend, plaintiff must demonstrate how the conditions about which he complains resulted in a deprivation of plaintiff's constitutional rights. See e.g., West v. Atkins, 487 U.S. 42, 48 (1988). Also, the second amended complaint must allege in specific terms how each named defendant is involved. Rizzo v. Goode, 423 U.S. 362, 371 (1976). There can be no liability under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 unless there is some affirmative link or connection between a defendant's actions and the claimed deprivation. Id.; May v. Enomoto, 633 F.2d 164,

1 167 (9th Cir. 1980).¹⁷ Furthermore, vague and conclusory allegations of official participation in 2 civil rights violations are not sufficient. Ivey v. Bd. of Regents, 673 F.2d 266, 268 (9th Cir.
 3 1982).

4 In addition, plaintiff is informed that the court cannot refer to a prior pleading in order to 5 make plaintiff's second amended complaint complete. Local Rule 220 requires that an amended 6 complaint be complete in itself without reference to any prior pleading. This requirement exists 7 because, as a general rule, an amended complaint supersedes the original complaint. See Ramirez
 8 v. County of San Bernardino, 806 F.3d 1002, 1008 (9th Cir. 2015) ("an 'amended complaint 9 supersedes the original, the latter being treated thereafter as non-existent.'" (internal citation 10 omitted)). Once plaintiff files a second amended complaint, the original pleading no longer 11 serves any function in the case. Therefore, in a second amended complaint, as in an original 12 complaint, each claim and the involvement of each defendant must be sufficiently alleged.

13 Also, the federal rules contemplate brevity. See Galbraith v. County of Santa Clara, 307 14 F.3d 1119, 1125 (9th Cir. 2002) (noting that "nearly all of the circuits have now disapproved any 15 heightened pleading standard in cases other than those governed by Rule 9(b)."); Fed. R. Civ. P.
 16 84; cf. Rule 9(b) (setting forth rare exceptions to simplified pleading). Plaintiff's claims must be 17 set forth in short and plain terms, simply, concisely and directly. See Swierkiewicz v. Sorema 18 N.A., 534 U.S. 506, 514 (2002) ("Rule 8(a) is the starting point of a simplified pleading system, 19 which was adopted to focus litigation on the merits of a claim."); Fed. R. Civ. P. 8. Plaintiff must 20 eliminate from plaintiff's pleading all preambles, introductions, argument, speeches, 21 explanations, stories, griping, evidence, summaries, and the like. McHenry v. Renne, 84 F.3d 22 1172, 1180 (9th Cir. 1996) (affirming dismissal of § 1983 complaint for violation of Rule 8 after 23

24 ¹⁷ Further, claims must be properly joined. A plaintiff may properly assert multiple claims 25 against a single defendant. Fed. Rule Civ. P. 18. In addition, a plaintiff may join multiple 26 defendants in one action where "any right to relief is asserted against them jointly, severally, or in 27 the alternative with respect to or arising out of the same transaction, occurrence, or series of 28 transactions and occurrences" and "any question of law or fact common to all defendants will arise in the action." Fed. R. Civ. P. 20(a)(2). Unrelated claims against different defendants must be pursued in separate lawsuits. See George, 507 F.3d at 607. This rule is intended, in part, "to prevent the sort of morass [a multiple claim, multiple defendant] suit produce[s]." Id.

1 warning); see Crawford-El v. Britton, 523 U.S. 574, 597 (1998) (reiterating that “firm application
2 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure is fully warranted” in prisoner cases). The court (and 3 each defendant) should be able to read and understand plaintiff’s pleading within minutes.
4 McHenry, 84 F.3d at 1177. A long, rambling pleading, including many defendants with 5 unexplained, tenuous or implausible connection to the alleged constitutional injury or joining a 6 series of unrelated claims against many defendants will likely result in delaying the review 7 required by 28 U.S.C. § 1915 and an order dismissing plaintiff’s action pursuant to Fed. R. Civ.
8 P. 41 for violation of these instructions.

9 XIV. CONCLUSION AND ORDERS

10 In conclusion, the Court determines that plaintiff’s FAC must be dismissed because he has 11 joined, in one pleading, unrelated claims against dozens of different defendants that do not all 12 arise from the same transaction or occurrences, and plaintiff fails to demonstrate he can allege 13 facts showing “systemic retaliation.” Plaintiff is granted leave to file a second amended 14 complaint in which he raises only those claims arising from the same transaction, occurrence, 15 or series of transactions and occurrences in which all of the named defendants were involved. In 16 addition, if plaintiff files a second amended complaint, plaintiff should not renew retaliation or 17 other claims unless they are based on incidents where the Court found plaintiff stated a potentially 18 cognizable claim as outlined above.

19 In accordance with the above, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that:

20 1. Plaintiff’s requests to proceed in forma pauperis (ECF Nos. 3, 23) are granted.

21 2. Plaintiff is obligated to pay the statutory filing fee of $350.00 for this action. Plaintiff 22 is assessed an initial partial filing fee in accordance with the provisions of 28 U.S.C.
23 § 1915(b)(1). All fees shall be collected and paid in accordance with this court’s order to the 24 Director of the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation filed concurrently 25 herewith.

26 3. Plaintiff’s motion to submit a complaint larger than 25 pages (ECF No. 12) is granted.

27 4. Plaintiff’s motion to amend (ECF No. 16) is denied as moot.

28 5. Plaintiff’s first amended complaint (ECF No. 17) is dismissed.

6. Within thirty days from the date of this order, plaintiff shall complete the attached Notice of Amendment and submit the following documents to the court:

a. The completed Notice of Amendment; and

b. An original of the Second Amended Complaint, which is limited to 25 pages.

Plaintiff's second amended complaint shall comply with the requirements of the Civil Rights Act, the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, and the Local Rules of Practice. The second amended complaint must also bear the docket number assigned to this case and must be labeled "Second Amended Complaint." Plaintiff's second amended complaint shall not exceed 25 pages.

In addition, plaintiff's second amended complaint must only include claims involving the same defendant or defendants and arising from the same transaction, occurrence, or series of transactions and occurrences. Unrelated claims must be brought in separate actions. Failure to file a second amended complaint in accordance with this order may result in the dismissal of this action.
